

To all ITSP BPA "Leads/Primes" and "Teammates":

As all of you know, a business who is "small" under one Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) code may be a large business under another. As a point of clarification, if your GSA FSS Group 70 IT Schedule contract classifies you as a Large business under the 7379 SIC code, then you are "large" in every sense for ITSP and cannot claim classifications that you might otherwise when "small" under another SIC code. Therefore, if a respondee has indicated that they are an SDB and/or women owned (and have been small under other SICs), but for ITSP you are classified as large, then any SDB and/or women-owned status you might otherwise have does not come into play under ITSP. You are strictly "Large" and cannot claim to have the flexibility of allowing users to make direct awards to you for attainment of socio-economic goals, as your other small business status is not a useable classification under ITSP.
